Supported By

Ministry of Textile
Govt. of India

The Ministry of Textiles is dedicated to elevating India's textile industry to a global manufacturing hub. By fostering high-tech and high-growth product segments, the Ministry aims to achieve a US$ 250 billion industry and US$ 100 billion in global exports by 2030. They focus on leveraging India's inherent strengths, developing large-scale, sustainable infrastructure, and creating significant employment opportunities, particularly in traditional sectors and balanced regional development. Together with Gartex Texprocess India, we strive to enhance indigenous capabilities in textile machinery & garment manufacturing and ensure self-reliance across the entire raw material value chain, contributing to the vision of an Atma-Nirbhar Bharat.
